

---

Rondo Bush Baby (Galagooides rondoensis)

---

Status: Critically Endangered

Threats: Loss of trees due to logging

What country does it live in? United Republic of Tanzania, Africa

Where does it live? Dry forest on the coast and patches of scrub

---

How long do they live? 13 years

What do they eat? Animal prey, fruit, gums, leaves and buds

How big are they? As big as a hamster (Females are lighter )

How do they talk? Chirps, grunts and squawks

What do they do? They use their scent to mark where they have been and to communicate with each other. They also have lots of different sounds they make to communicate over long distances in the dark

Who do they live with? On its own but sleeps in groups

How do they walk? Walks on all fours

Where would you find it? At night in the trees

---

MASC:

Monkeys Acting in Schools for Conservation

www.monkeysinschools.org